

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Origin of the Family Name of Schermerhorn

With a Brief Account of what is known of the Early Ancestor of the Family in the United States

ABOUT fifteen miles north of Amsterdam, Holland, near the northwest corner of the former site of a lake, is the village of Schermerhorn. Upon a map dated 1604 this lake is indicated as De Scher Mer; about two hundred and fifty years ago the lake was drained, and its site is now occupied by highly cultivated farms. A point of land jutting into the lake, near the former water connection between De Scher Mer and De Beemster, is marked, upon the map referred to, as De Hooren, and upon this land stands the present village of Schermerhorn.

The old Saxon word Skir became changed to Scher in the Middle Dutch period of the language, and means clear, pure, bright.<sup>1</sup> The designation Scher Mer was probably given to the lake from the clearness, purity, or brightness of its waters. The word Meer, or Mer, means lake, and the word Hooren a point, hook, or cape of land. The name Scher-Mer-Horn is simply a compound of these three words, and, like the majority of Holland family names, is of geographical origin. In the early Dutch colonial records the name appears as Schermerhooren, and was so written by the first generation in this country. The proper pronunciation of the name is Scare-Mer-Horn. The family still exists in Holland, and its members bear to-day the baptismal names so common in the early generations in America.

The first emigrant bearing this name from Holland—and, so far as known, the only one—was Jacob Janse<sup>1</sup> Schermerhooren, who left the Fatherland on the ship “Rensselaerwyck,” on October 1, 1636, and came to Beverwycke (Albany). On the ship’s list of colonists he is designated as “Jacob Janse van Amsterdam, age 14 years;”<sup>2</sup> he was therefore born in the year 1622. In the early records of the Colony he is sometimes referred to as Jacob Janse van Schermerhooren. In a State document of Holland published at The Hague in 1650,<sup>3</sup> relating to Governor Stuyvesant’s conduct in the affairs of the Colony, Schermerhooren is referred to as “Jacob Janse van Schermerhooren, formerly a citizen of Waterland, Holland.” This locality included the village of Schermerhorn, and the areas formerly covered by De Scher Mer, De Wur Mer, De Pur Mer, and De Beemster.

The colonial records state that in 1648 Jacob Reynties (Reyntsen, Reyntgen) obtained from the West India Company’s agent at New Amsterdam (New York) arms and ammunition, which were sent to Schermerhooren at Fort Orange (Albany), who in turn sold them to the Indians. This traffic being illicit, in the opinion of Governor Stuyvesant, unless carried on by himself,<sup>4</sup> Reynties and Schermerhooren were seized on May 26, 1648, and, with their goods, books, and papers, carried prisoners to New Amsterdam. On July 9, 1648, they were sentenced by Stuyvesant to banishment from the Colony for five years, with the confiscation of all their property, which it is stated was considerable. This sentence was, in the opinion of the "Nine Men" and others, undeserved, and through their interposition it was revoked on August 1, 1648.<sup>1</sup> The property of Schermerhooren had been confiscated between the sentence and its revocation, and so remained. These proceedings of Stuyvesant subsequently formed part of the complaint of maladministration made against him by the Colony to the States-General in Holland.

Jacob Janse Schermerhooren was commissary to the General Privileged West India Company, and was also one of a court of three commissaries (magistrates) at Beverwycke and Fort Orange (Albany), in 1652, 1654, 1656, 1657, 1664, 1666, 1674, and 1675.<sup>2</sup> The records of this court also show that in 1654 he visited Amsterdam, where his father, Jan Schermerhooren, was then living.<sup>3</sup> He again visited his native land in 1668, and there loaded the ship "King Charles" with goods for the Colony. The ship was prohibited from sailing to New York, and on December 11, 1668, Schermerhooren petitioned King Charles II. for his permission to depart with his ship from the Trexel, "where it hath lain many days ready to sail, and now lies there at great hazard on account of the season of the year." The permission was subsequently granted by the orders of the King, through the Duke of York, Lord High Admiral of England.<sup>4</sup>

The name of Jacob Janse Schermerhooren is recorded as the twelfth male member of the Reformed Dutch Church of Beverwycke, organized in 1642 by Domine Johannes Megapolensis; and as a member of the Consistory he audited the deacon's accounts generally between 1665 and 1686.

About 1650 Schermerhooren married Jannetie S. Van Voorhoudt, and at least nine children, five sons and four daughters, were the result of the union. In his will, dated May 20, 1688, recorded at Albany, New York, he names his children in the order given in the following genealogical table, and refers to the last four as then in their minority.

He was a trader with the Indians, and the owner of quite large estates. He lived in Albany until 1686, when he removed to Schenectady, where he died in 1688. Prior to 1676 his house and gardens were on the east side of North Pearl Street, Albany, beginning sixty feet south of Maiden Lane; after 1676 he lived on the north side of State Street, just east of Chapel Street. His wife received the income from his estate until her death in 1700, when the estate, amounting to 56,882 guilders, was equally divided among the nine children; it included houses and lands at Schenectady, Albany, and Schodack, and moneys in Holland.

Jacob Janse Schermerhooren was a man of indomitable energy and will, combined with marked intelligence and executive ability; the former is attested by the early age at which he left his native land, by his opposition to Governor Stuyvesant, and his final business success in the Colony; and the latter by the stations of honor and trust which he was called by his fellow-colonists to occupy while he was yet a young man.

Schermerhorn

THIS coat of arms of the Schermerhorn family was obtained by Captain Joseph Marschalk, in 1800, from a painted window of the church in the village of Schermerhorn, Holland. The device upon the seal of the village is a mole. The following description of the above coat of arms is contained in "Armorial Général," par J. B. Rietsap, 1887: "Schermerhorn: D'argent (ou d'azur) à un chêne au naturel, posé sur un tertre de sinople, et une taupe de sable au pied de l'arbre. Casque couronné: Cimier, le chêne: Devise, Industria semper crescant."

1. JACOB JANSE SCHERMERHOOREN married Jannetie S. Van Voorhoudt. Issue:

of Jacob Janse Schermerhooren, dated May 20, 1688, the children are named in the above order, and the last four are referred to as then (1688) being in their minority.

Jannetie S. Van Voorhoudt, born in Holland about 1682, was the daughter of Cornelis Segerse Van Voorhoudt and Bregje Jacobson, who came from Holland to Beverwycke (Albany) in 1642. Jannetie Schermerhooren died at Schenectady, New York, in 1700.

In 1682 he married Gerritie Hendrickse, daughter of Hendrick Cornelis Van Buren and Elizabeth —; or granddaughter of Cornelis Maas Van Buren and Catalyntje Martense De Weever, who came from Guilderland, Holland, in 1681. The brothers Jacob and Cornelis (see Nos. 5 and 7) married sisters.

In the will of Jacob Janse Schermerhooren, dated May 20, 1688, it is stated: "I do freely remitt & discharge my sonne Jacob Schermerhoorn that lives upon my farm at Schotak of ye rent which he is owing for ye same and which will be due to ye day of my decease not willing that my executrix or admx shall any wise molest him the said Jacob Schermerhoorn Jr or his heirs for ye same." In the subsequent division of the property, in 1700, Jacob Jacobse Schermerhoorn came into possession of the property referred to, and his descendants retained the original farm until it was sold, in 1836, by Barent C. Schermerhorn, in the sixth generation.

Antie Van Vechten was baptized December 20, 1692, and was the daughter of Cornelis Teunise Van Vechten and Maria Lucase, and granddaughter of Teunis Van Vechten.

Jacob C. Schermerhorn lived at Schodack Landing, New York, the home of his ancestors. He was a large land-owner, and was prominently connected with the public affairs of his time. He served in the Revolutionary War, in 1775-76, as first lieutenant in Captain John H. Beekman's company of the Fifth Albany County Regiment, commanded by Colonel Stephen Schuyler; and in 1776-77 as first major of the Second Battalion of the Fourth Albany County Regiment, commanded by Colonel Kilian Van Rensselaer.

Major Schermerhorn was in command of his regiment at the surrender of General Burgoyne at Saratoga, on October 17, 1777. He was a member of the New York State Assembly in 1795, and from 1798 to 1797 was State Commissioner for the County buildings at Troy, New York. He died at Schodack Landing, New York, on May 5, 1822. A portrait, in water-colors, taken in the later part of his life, now exists in our family.

Jacob C. Schermerhorn's first wife, Gerritje Schermerhorn, born May 1, 1742, was the daughter of Johannes J. Schermerhorn and Engeltie Gardenier (see No. 18). She died March 2, 1782, six weeks after the birth of her daughter Cathalyne. His second wife, Cornelia Gardenier, was born in 1753; she was the widow of Johannes Vosburgh, and died July 21, 1793. Cornelius I. (J.) Schermerhorn, born August 15, 1764, lived at Schodack Landing, New York. He was a merchant and a large land- and vessel-owner, several of his vessels being engaged in trade with the East Indies. In 1808, 1809, 1810, 1811, and 1818 he was a member of the New York State Assembly, and during that service he was prominently identified with the plans for the inauguration of the Erie Canal. He was commissioned on March 30, 1803, as major, on March 12, 1810, as lieutenant-colonel, and on April 13, 1812, as colonel of the Forty-third Regiment, Eighth Brigade, Third Division, of the New York Militia, under command of Brigadier-General Jacob A. Fort and Major-General Henry Livingston. Colonel Schermerhorn served on the northern frontier with his regiment during the war of 1812. He died at Schodack Landing, August 25, 1828.

Cornelius I. Schermerhorn's first wife, Elizabeth Monden, was born in 1764. She was a descendant of Heer Johannes La Montagne, vice-director of the West India Company at Fort Orange (Albany) from 1659 to 1664. The family was of Huguenot origin, emigrating from Holland about the middle of the seventeenth century. Among some of the later generations the original name became phonetically changed to Monden, Monton, and Munden. Elizabeth M. Schermerhorn died June 9, 1815. His second wife, Cathlina Schermerhorn, born September 15, 1775, was the daughter of Hendrick J. Schermerhorn and Cornelia Lansing (see No. 26), and the widow of Petrus Hardenburg; she died January 23, 1835.

In 1898 the headstones marking the graves of Jacob C. Schermerhorn and family, and also those of Cornelius I. Schermerhorn and family, were removed from their several burial-places and placed in the cemetery at Schodack Landing.

57. BARENT CORNELIUS SCHERMERHORN married, January 8, 1827, Catharine Witbeck. Issue:

- 59. ELIZABETH, born December 13, 1827; married Robert M. Pease.
- 60. CATHARINE A., born October 22, 1829.
- 61. CHARLES, born June 16, 1832; married Jane Wells.
- 62. FRANK, born August 29, 1835.
- 63. LOUIS Y., born November 18, 1840; married Romie Bovie Dods.
- 64. BARENT V. D., born October 22, 1842; married Adelaide Potter.

Barent C. Schermerhorn was born January 28, 1804, at Schodack Landing, New York, and upon the death of his father inherited the old homestead of his ancestors. (See Jacob Jacobse Schermerhoorn.) He was commissioned as major on August 11, 1831, as lieutenant-colonel on June 26, 1834, and as colonel on September 9, 1835, of the Forty-third Regiment, Eighth Brigade, Ninth Division, of the New York State Militia, under Brigadier-General Henry I. Genêt. This regiment had successively been commanded by Colonel Schermerhorn's grandfather in 1777, and by his father in 1812. In 1838 he removed to Greenwich, New York, and in 1868 to Troy, New York, where he died March 10, 1872. Barent C. Schermerhorn was always identified with the advancement of the best interests of the community in which he lived, and for forty years he was a prominent member of the Dutch Reformed Church and its synods. His life was that of a Christian gentleman.

His wife, Catharine Witbeck, born May 15, 1810, was the daughter of John A. Witbeck and Catharine Van Dyck, and therefore a lineal descendant of Jan Thomase Van Witbeck, who came from Witbeck, Holstein, in 1638, and Heer Hendrick Van Dyck, who came from Utrecht in 1645. Catharine W. Schermerhorn died at Lansingburgh, New York, October 31, 1898.

Obituary

"The funeral of Mrs. Catharine W. Schermerhorn was held on November 3 [1898], at the home of the family, 286 Third Avenue, Lansingburgh. Mrs. Schermerhorn died October 31, having reached the advanced age of eighty-eight years, and to the day of her death preserved most of the powers and energies of the body, and all the graces of heart and mind which had so eminently distinguished her life. Throughout a long and useful life she splendidly exemplified the ideal wife and mother. Gentle by nature, and further sanctified by an unquestioning faith in a glorious future, she passed away as she had lived, fully reposing in the faith of a lifetime. Gentleness and grace of manner combined with an intense mother-love endeared her most strongly to her children. To them she bequeathed, through a model life, the priceless inheritance of a pure, consistent, and loving example of all that is best in human life, and a lasting memory, endeared by a world of cherished associations. To have so lived that words cannot express the present sense of loss incurred by those she has lived for is the most glowing eulogy which can be paid to her blessed memory, and such a tribute her children lovingly yield."
